CRANSTON-

Panel Discussion - Monday, April 8th, from 6:00 to 8 p.m. - The Cranston Historical Society, the Public Archaeology Laboratory (PAL) and the Cranston Historical Cemeteries Commission will sponsor a panel discussion at the Cranston Public Library on the 2006 disturbance of the graves of residents who died at the state poorhouse in the early 1900s. A panelist from the historical society will talk about how the state poorhouse, asylum and prison came to be at Sockanossett Cross Road and PAL representatives will tell the story of the graves' disturbance in 2006 and the lab's efforts to identify the skeletal remains and rebury them. The event will be in the library's James Giles Community Room. Contact- David Guiot dwg1155@aol.com

The event is not sponsored or endorsed by the Cranston Public Library.

Presentation- Wednesday, April 24th- 6:30pm - Cranston Central Library- 140 Sockanosset Cross Rd, Cranston, RI 02920- "Living with the Dead in Rhode Island: From Cemetery Destruction to Cemetery Preservation" -State Archaeologist Charlotte Taylor presents a talk on Rhode Island cemetery law. Before 1990, it wasn't safe to be dead in Rhode Island. Although the destruction of graves has been a felony in Rhode Island since 1896, this did not stop property developers and road builders from destroying cemeteries that got in the way of their plans, including the burial places of Native Americans some thousands of years old. It did not stop antiquarians and curious property owners from digging up bodies. Explore this dark history and today's era of stronger laws and more engaged advocacy for Rhode Islanders who can no longer speak for themselves. Charlotte will present both atrocities and stories of successful, respectful preservation, drawing on her experiences as one of the first people who is called when (old) skeletal remains are found.

CUMBERLAND- Cemetery cleanup schedule 2024. Times each day: 10:00 AM-12:00N - 4:00 PM- 6:00pm Participants are asked to meet fifteen minutes before each session at the first cemetery listed for that day. They will be assigned a location at that time and given paper leaf bags and yellow trash bags. Contact Joyce - jhindlekoutsogiane@gmail.com

Presentation- Thursday – April 4th- 2:00-3:00- Colonial Newport Burial Sites & Stones Presentation - Edward King House - reservations- <https://lp.constantcontactpages.com/ev/reg/8dsn2mg/lp/bc587806-62a3-4091-8292-49baa74041c9>

Newport was one of the five major cities in colonial America and is fortunate to have hundreds of buildings and sites that showcase the city’s history. Included in these sites are colonial-era burial grounds and gravestones. They are outdoor museums, enhancing the city and helping to tell the story of the people who lived here. This presentation will focus on burial sites that reflect the people and society of colonial Newport. Although Newport was a diverse community, burial practices were remarkable alike. Find out about the sites and the carvers who crafted the gravestones. The Stevens family of Newport were important stone carvers and will be a focus of the presentation. -Lew Keen has served on the state cemetery commission and is chair of the Newport Historic Cemetery Advisory Commission. He has documented graves in Newport for the state database and is the author of A Guide to Historic Burial Grounds in Newport, published by History Press in 2021. His website is ripnewport.com -This presentation is free of charge but reservations are required.

Tour- Saturday - April 20th 10 am - Arnold Burying Ground Tour and Alice Brayton

reservations- npthistoriccemeteries@gmail.com

Nestled in the heart of Newport is a family burial ground with a remarkable story. The final resting place for members of the Arnold family was obliterated and later restored thanks to the efforts of Alice Brayton. The tour will share the story and take a close look at some of the remarkable colonial gravestones in the site. The tour will be presented by Lew Keen who served as a state cemetery commissioner and chair of the Newport Historic Cemetery Advisory Commission. He has documented graves in Newport for the state database and is the author of A Guide to Historic Burial Grounds in Newport, published by History Press in 2021. His website is ripnewport.com

Tour- Saturday- April 27th- 10am- Common Burying Ground Tour

reservations- npthistoriccemeteries@gmail.com

Explore Newport's largest and most important colonial era burial site with a focus on gravestones and stone carvers. The tour will include an up-close look at work that has been done to preserve stones for future generations to enjoy. The tour will be presented by Lew Keen who has served as a state cemetery commissioner and chair of the Newport Historic Cemetery Advisory Commission. He has documented graves in Newport for the state database and is the author of A Guide to Historic Burial Grounds in Newport, published by History Press in 2021. His website is ripnewport.com

Presentation- Thursday- May 2nd- 2:00pm- 3:00pm - Gilded Age Graves in Newport Presentation

reservations- <https://lp.constantcontactpages.com/ev/reg/mavrqe/lp/d1f15b4a-3519-45d5-be59-62b62fbbe998>

The city of Newport was the playground of Gilded Age Americans who built the "cottages" that stand today and provide a glimpse of the places they lived. When death arrived, Island Cemetery became "the place" to be buried. The cemetery is the final resting place of ordinary people to world famous individuals. While many buried here were part of the year-round Newport community, a surprising number of summer visitors chose Newport as their place for eternal rest. Members of Mrs. Astors 400, explorers, civil rights leaders, architects, politicians and military heroes are among the people discussed in the presentation. The cemetery has a rich variety of sculptured monuments, some designed by noted architects. The presentation will include grave markers that reflect both the wealth and style of the time. -Lew Keen has served as a state cemetery commissioner and chair of the Newport Historic Cemetery Advisory Commission since 2016. He has documented graves in Newport for the state database and is a co-author of Discover Island Cemetery: Notable People and Monuments from the Gilded Age to Modern Times. WARREN-

Walking Tour- Saturday- April 6th 2:00pm- (rain date Sunday April 7th) - Burr's Hill was an ancient Pokanoket Royal Burial Ground containing dozens of grave sites, including the Massasoit Ousamequin who occupied the area in the 1600s. Used as a sand and gravel source for a railroad that was constructed next to the site in 1853, many graves were looted. In 1913, in an effort to protect the remaining 42 graves, librarian and amateur archaeologist Charles Carr exhumed the contents and donated some of them to museums. Come and learn how those contents were returned to this site in Warren, RI in 2017 and the status and history of the tribe today. Location: Water Street across from the Warren Town Beach (use 530 Water Street for GPS) Parking is available in the lot on Water Street just beyond the Town Beach.
